BLG Selection Criteria

Selection

Each player selected is representing Boland Ladies Golf and must be aware of the fact that this is as they are seen by the public and the golfing community.

Discipline, empathy, commitment, integrity, respect for others and oneself are values inherently good for personal character building, the development of constant standards and a positive contribution to team spirit.

Selections by their very nature are exclusionary and as such, there are more disappointed than satisfied players.

Eligibility

Players with an official handicap index of 6.5 and below qualify for 72 Hole and IPT tournaments. All juniors can be considered for SA Girls.

Players who demonstrate consistent and regular updating of scores on the HNA database with an absence of penalty scores.

Players who are affiliated members of BLG, playing golf at college or out of the country are eligible for selection. The latter are required to keep BLG up-to-date on their progress if they wish to be considered for selection.

Selection Policy

- BLG rankings are the main guide for selection. Players whose names do not appear on these lists should make the effort to play in WGSA and Provincial Championship events.
- All Provincial Championships are included in the above rankings; participation will be an important consideration. Performance in BLG events and events not included in the above, e.g. international events and Club Championships.

- Past performance in representative teams.
- Ability to add value to a team.
- Attitude and behavior of the highest standard and consistent respect for the etiquette of the game is essential. This factor will be a major consideration in selection irrespective of the player's position on the ranking list. The performance of the team is significantly affected by the attitude and behavior of team members.

Player Responsibilities

Players are expected to attend squad training sessions, organized for coaching/training and selection purposes. Reasons for non attendance must be submitted to the President. It is the responsibility of a player who is selected for a specific event to display the commitment to do everything possible to be ready and fit for the event.
